

WORKSHOP FOR PARENTS & TEACHERS

Tuesday 11th October

THE MARIE EUGENIE ROOM
23 Kensington Square, London W8 5HN

Registration & wine: 6.00pm
6.30-7.30pm

WHY DOES THAT CHILD NEVER LISTEN?

- Does your child forget what you've just said?
- Does information seem to go in one ear and out of the other?
- Does he go upstairs to fetch his sweater and reading book, only to reappear 10 minutes later with only one of them?
- Does he have difficulty in learning and retaining times-tables?

These examples of difficulty in processing and mentally 'holding on' to information are often due to a poor working memory. Veronica Bidwell, Educational Psychologist, will define and explain working memory; she will review what is known about this important aspect of memory and the way in which poor working memory can adversely affect learning.

She will discuss strategies which parents, teachers and children themselves can start to use to both alleviate and to overcome the impact of poor working memory.
